Lesson 6 –

How to choose the best dating websites to market yourself

In this lesson, our goal is to

1. Determine which dating sites are best suited for your targeted market
2. To make yourself visible to the widest possible audience of targeted singles
3. To sharpen your communication skills when other singles contact you
4. To build your confidence and become more selective because of your increased options
5. Avoid becoming a victim of a scam artist or someone misrepresenting them self.

The latest research shows that there are over 2,500 dating websites in the U.S. alone – and over 10,000 worldwide. Many are free, however not all are reputable. You can find a website for nearly any type of subculture that exists.

If you're interested in dating Trekkies or Vampire – there's a site for you. Since most of you may be more interested in dating the mainstream genre – In a minute, I'm going to show you a website that lists over 400 of the top dating sites with detailed information on each one, and the ability to sort them in most every way - from the highest rated, to the most expensive – to the free ones, to the most visited – they are even broken down to the male/female ratio. They are also broken down to race, religion and even sexual preferences.

This website simplifies greatly your ability to market yourself on multiple dating websites. Because you now have the ability to research in detail which ones are best suited for you, it's relatively easy to just cut and paste your information on the various ones, then wait for the action. When you have so many websites that you can target to promote yourself, then you can really start being selective.

An even greater feature of this site is the ability to examine in detail each website with reviews given, and a general breakdown of features, functions and services each dating website provides.....

For example, there's PlentyofFish – a free website with over 120 million hits per month. There is Match.com – with over 93 million per month, Zoosk – with another 63 million per month. Can you imagine the opportunities you'll have when you present yourself on a number of these websites when you know how to create a professional, top notch star quality profile of yourself?

It also helps when in this program you'll learn how to flirt and better connect with those you have an interest in. It will also be important to learn how to manage all of the newfound attention you'll be getting.

When you market your car or your house or even look for a job – do you just throw anything together and hope for the best – or do you seek professional assistance to make sure you get the best deal? Do you just tell a few people, or do you want as many people as possible to know what you're selling?

If you want to meet your best love match available in the shortest time possible, then you will need a tested, proven strategic plan to first see everything that's available, then have a strategy to connect with your best love match available.

Just click on the link below and select the ones best suited for you.

The second part of this lesson has to do with avoid becoming a victim of a scam artist – or to avoid going on a date with someone who misrepresents themselves. Even the best dating websites have those who are scammers.

In this lesson, I showed you the place to go to find the best websites to market yourself on so you can get the most exposure possible to find your ultimate love match. In the next lesson, I'm going to show you the best way to avoid becoming an internet dating Scam victim, and also those daters who misrepresent themselves in their profile.
